

Afflicted with a plague, you must become the masque of the red death, and show to hi, that death is inevitable

There is a red smoke around Annabel whe she enters the room, and ter is no red in the room otherwise

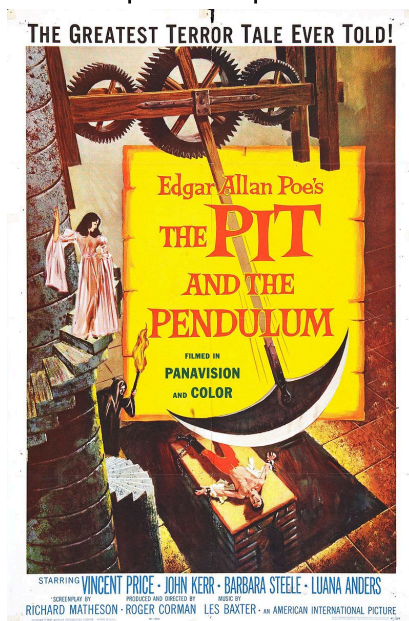

Prospero, in a desperate attempt to save his own life reveals the true intentions of The Raven and The Man who hired you to kill him, that he wants to keep you here for himself

The Raven and The Man sent for him to be killed as he has started to turn some of the house against him by speaking of a rebellion to free the lady he has fallen for, Ligeia. While she is dead, he hopes to free her of the shackles that bind her to this mortal place. He only fights you in self defense

Once you kill him the first time, the boss room is empty, and in his stead is a sulking ghost, angry he could not free his love. He explains what's happening, and annabel says that she wants to kill The Raven and The Man but will need practice, and thus the fight continues

Should be a pendulum in the boss room as in "the pit and the pendulum", it represents the impeding and inevitable death

His weapon is a pendulum that has a blade on the end, like a meteor hammer that cuts

He is a commanding, bold and muscular figure, with a large white dress coat like this, but with extravagant designs

For his face I'm imagining a long face with a big nose and a mustache and a hat like this:

Initially he has quite an uptight and strong posture as he is a prince. but on his second phase he changes his posture to that of a scared and rabid animal, terrified he wont be able to free Ligeia or the other inhabitants of this house. He realizes he can fail